

MAKE THE MOST OF MOBILE HEALTH TRACKERS

Hormone Health
NETWORK®
Keep your body in balance

Wearable health and fitness trackers not only make practical gifts, but they also help your loved ones (and you!) reach health goals. Work with a physician to learn more about how to use a tracker to help monitor hormonal and endocrine-related conditions.

Visit hormone.org for more information.

IMPACT OF TRACKING FOR THOSE WITH A CHRONIC CONDITION

51%

changed overall approach to their own health or health of someone else

48%

led them to ask a doctor new questions or get a second opinion

A B C

43%

affected a decision about how to treat an illness/condition

TYPES OF WIRELESS HEALTH AND FITNESS TRACKERS

Device selection depends on your personal needs and preferences

Wearable Bands or Clips

Beyond classic pedometers—which still do the job well!—tracking technology has advanced and can even be worn as fashion accessories

Cell Phones
Provide access to a variety of health apps to use on the go

CAPABILITIES AND BENEFITS

Hormone-related and more!

- + Boost motivation
- + Track goals
- + Identify unhealthy habits
- + Medication adherence
- + Calculate caloric intake
- + Measure food portions
- + Monitor blood pressure and glucose levels
- + Sleep quality
- + Skin sweat & body temperature
- + Social support
- + Waterproof
- + Identify energy level patterns
- + Physical activity

TRACKING HORMONAL ISSUES CAN ...

Curb Obesity

Manage Diabetes

Assess Treatments for Thyroid Disorders

Forecast Menstrual and Menopause Patterns

Recommended # steps/day:

10,000 =
5 MILES

Studies show that people who wear a device that tracks the number of steps they've taken each day get moving more than those who don't.

You have questions. We have answers.

The Hormone Health Network is your trusted source for endocrine patient education. Our free, online resources are available at hormone.org.